MORE POUNDS, MORE SMILES
GOLD AND GLOOM
COOL IN WASHINGTON
HUNG J.P. FOREVER

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright 1930 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A little currency inflation, as Cyrus H. K. Curtis suggested recently, in one of his newspapers, is sometimes useful.

"Poor England," sliding down from a gold basis, automatically inflates her currency. A pound worth less, means more pounds, and more pounds, until inflation goes too far, means more cheerfulness. London's stock market yesterday was cheerful, British securities rising.

Not so here, where we sit in our five billion dollar pile of yellow gold, clinking to our darling gold standard.

Wall street, with "short selling" restored, and Bears active, saw stocks go sliding down.

Who can explain finance? Mer-lyn could not, if he came back, nor the Witch of Endor, much less any banker.

Britain's pound dropped to $3.90 from a normal gold value of $4.80 and, London's markets were cheerful.

No amateur should "put his finger between the bark and the tree," as the French have it. No amateur in finance should tell Wall street what to do. But if the stock exchange really wants to discourage short selling, which means conspiracies, and attacks on values, why not make short sellers pay $25, or $50, on every share of stock borrowed for short sales. Or would that be Bolshevism?

Today, this beautiful city, Washington, after a boiling summer, enjoys a cool breeze, and cheerfulness.

Fruit stands sell deliciously ripe peaches and pears, very large, for five cents. Taxi cabs, in some kind of local rate war, take you anywhere in Washington for 20 cents. And everybody is amazingly polite. Nearly everybody is on a payroll, and Uncle Sam keeps his help, although he does not pay as well as he should.

In the best of seasons, President Hoover eats his luncheon on the rear balcony of the White House, overlooking the Potomac, and facing the tall White Washington monument, constant reminder that this is a stable country in spite of Wall street's wild war dance.

Even more stable than the Washington monument, and as truly American are the people, young and old, waiting in the executive offices where reporters gather, to shake the president's hand.

There are placid women from the middle west, wholesome young girls, that will soon be back in high school, old men, with beards, that want to tell the president they knew Gen. Grant.

The country and its ambitions are real to them. The White house is center of early glory. The president is the greatest man in the world with 99 percent to spare. To shake his hand, see him smile benevolently, much delighted to meet you, is for Americans, genuine and unsophisticated, as exciting and eternally memorable, as for an Arab to look upon the Kaaba stone at Mecca, or for a Buddhist to see Gautama's tooth, solemnly carried

Woman Stabs Husband
During Quarrel; Admits Crime

JEALOUSY MOTIVE,
POLICE DECLARE

Wife, Slicing Bread, turns Butcher Knife Against Victim, 69

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 25.—John Haukenstine, 69, laborer, was fatally stabbed near the heart during a quarrel at his home on Ohio avenue Thursday at 5:30 p. m. He died in the City hospital at 6 a. m. today.

Admits Stabbing

Mrs. Sophia Haukenstine, 42, married by Haukenstine after a divorce, who, police say, admitted the stabbing, and Robert Lane, 42, a friend, were held in jail today, but no charges have been filed against them.

Jealousy was the motive behind the killing, police said. Mrs. Haukenstine told Police Captain Mason Conley that her husband became enraged because she had given a cigarette to a neighbor boy.

Lane told police he was sitting on the front porch of the home when the quarrel occurred.

"My husband began calling me names," Mrs. Haukenstine told police. "I told him not to repeat them," she said. "When he persisted I struck him with a butcher knife."

Uses Butcher Knife

The stabbing occurred as Mrs. Haukenstine was preparing the evening meal. She had the butcher knife in her hand, cutting bread, when, angered by her husband's alleged epithets, she stabbed him, police said.

Columbiana County Coroner E. R. Sturgis ordered an autopsy today.

The Haukenstine family came here four weeks ago from West Sunbury, near Butler, Pa.

Besides his widow, Haukenstine leaves two stepchildren.

YIELDS TO TWO ASSAILANTS TO SAVE HUSBAND

Mrs. Collings Reveals She Deliberately Permitted
Abduction

GIVES TESTIMONY
IN DEATH PROBE

Asserts That 5-Year-Old Daughter Was Awake
During Struggle

(By Associated Press)

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings today in her first public recital of how two men boarded the Penguin and murdered her husband in Long Island sound Sept. 9, indicated that she deliberately permitted them to abduct her believing that, by so doing she might save her husband and child.

As the assailants placed her in the canoe, she told Coroner William B. Gibson she saw a boat approaching the Collings' drifting cruiser, so she went with them quietly—hoping that, with their attention concentrated on her, her husband and daughter might be rescued.

Her testimony also revealed for the first time publicly that 5-year-old Barbara Collings was awake during the struggle on the Penguin and saw the slayers tie her father's hands before they crashed a milk bottle down on his head and threw him into the water.

"Leave my papa alone," she said Barbara called out to them.

Mrs. Collings appeared to be under a severe strain as she told her story. Part of the time she kept her eyes closed and once she appeared to be about to collapse.

Heard Talking First

Mrs. Collings was accompanied by her attorney, William A. Kelley, the first conscious thing I heard after we had gone to sleep was some one talking to my husband," she said.

And then she repeated the story of how the two men were demanding her husband take them and a wounded man to Stamford, Conn.

While her husband was getting dressed to obey their order, some one was pulling up the anchor, she said.

"My impression was they were bootleggers who merely wanted to use the boat."

"The older of the two men took charge of the boat and started it out of Price's bend. My husband told me this looks like a mess. I don't know what's going to happen now."

Mrs. Collings told of how the men insisted that her husband help them run the boat toward South Norwalk, Conn., where the men said they wanted to go.

"And the next thing I remembered," she continued, "the men ordered Ben to stop the boat. They were afraid something was following them. We drifted while a tow net was by."

"When for fifteen minutes then and the men again ordered my husband to stop the boat. They said 'we got to get the wounded man on board.'"

Believed Lost in Atlantic

Setting sail from Barcelona, Spain, on May 25, in a 36-foot boat, Professor Blanco Alferich, former Spanish teacher at the University of Idaho, and his wife and daughter are feared lost in the Atlantic. It is believed that the family had intended to make a world tour, but no news has been received of them since their start from the Spanish port. Top photo shows Professor Alferich, his daughter, Evala, for whom the boat was named, and Mrs. Alferich. Lower panel shows the little craft in which they braved the Atlantic.

Beer Talk Will Never Go

ANOTHER VISIONS
CONGRESS BATTLE

M. E. Temperance Leader
Condemns Soldier
Unit Action

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A series of prohibition rumblings precipitated in the capital by word of a new federal beer inquiry, appeared likely today to echo into 1932.

With the American Legion's vote in favor of a referendum lending fresh impetus, reaction ranged from praise and condemnation to a proposal that a resubmission plank be placed in the 1932 Democratic platform. Added was a forecast from a dry senator of a lively beer fight in the coming congress.

Senator Bulkley, Democratic anti-prohibitionist from Ohio, suggested that his party agree upon resubmitting the eighteenth amendment to the people rather than argue upon the merits of prohibition.

Not Nullification

Senator Walsh of Montana forecast agitation for beer legislation in the next congress. Known as a constitutional authority, the western Democrat, a dry, gave as his opinion that repeal or modification of the Volstead act would not constitute nullification of the eighteenth amendment.

Meanwhile, there was fresh ferment in the disclosure by Secretary Hyde that the effect upon the farmer of legalizing beer would be ascertained.

A government official reported that some beer data already had been gathered by the department of agriculture. These figures, he said, indicated legalizing of brewing might do the farmer more harm than good in that the market for dairy products might be reduced. Data was shown on the increased sale of these products with the coming of prohibition.

Moreover, it was the stated opinion of another high federal executive that talk of legalizing beer—whatever the effect—would never go beyond the conversational stage.

Reactions Numerous

Reactions to the American Legion's referendum proposal were numerous. The Anti-Saloon League said in a statement the vote did "not reflect the sentiment of the country and probably not of the Legion itself." The League contended that until the Legion produced a satisfactory alternative to prohibition its resolution "will not be taken seriously."

Henry H. Curran, president of the association against the prohibition amendment, said, in a statement, he believed the Legion's majority vote for resubmission of the eighteenth amendment would be answered by similar majority of the nation's voters "against any further continuation of the preposterous experiment of national prohibition."

In St. Joseph, Missouri, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, said "numbers of staggering drunkenness disgraced the uniform and yelled for beer" at the American Legion convention.

"The Legion has taken the wet side," he said in a statement. "I am not surprised. If you had seen the outfit that gathered in Detroit as I did, you would be surprised that 394 men (the number of delegates who voted against the referendum resolution) could be found who could stand up for the constitution and decency and sobriety."

KIWANIS IS TOLD

Att'y H.W. Hammond Discusses Community Responsibilities

Responsibilities of individuals of any community in the development of good citizenship were discussed by Att'y. Homer W. Hammond of Columbiana in an address at the Kiwanis club meeting, Thursday at the Memorial building.

Att'y Hammond's subject was, "The Duties of Good Citizenship." Warren W. Brown, club secretary was chairman.

Att'y. Hammond stressed the need of reverence for God in all nations and applied the inability of several great ancient nations to survive without divine leadership to present day periods. Belief in God, Hammond said, is one of the supreme duties of good citizenship.

Nations Have Crumbled

"History teaches us," the speaker said, "that no nation has ever stood the test of time without revering the Creator of all people. Great nations have crumbled when they drifted away from the divine influence, they forgot their Creator and felt that they were sufficient unto themselves."

"The people of today have inherited the benefits of divine guidance as bequeathed to us by traditions established by our ancestors. Americans. How are we keeping this trust? Are we good citizens? We have learned that no nation can become great without God and we must do our part, now that our nation has become great, to continue our belief in our God."

"Principal duties in good citizenship," Hammond continued, "are to give all assistance within power to those who are charged with enforcement of the law, to live wholly within the laws and customs of the country in which we live. Let us look to our own duty in the enforcement of law and crime will be reduced to a minimum."

Watch Government

"The next duty of a good citizen is to take an active part in governmental affairs. He must become acquainted with the type of men seeking public offices, ever remembering that the leopard cannot change his principles of living."

DELAY OPENING OF 5 SCHOOLS

West Township Authorities Need More Money; No Classes In Sight Until Nov. 16

EAST ROCHESTER, Sept. 25.—Owing to a lack of operating funds five school buildings in West township will be unable to open for the 1931-32 term until November 16. There are six buildings in the township but only five of them will be used during the coming term, according to William Morgan, president of the West township board of education.

West township has the lowest tax rate for school purposes in the county outside of one other township, according to Morgan. On two previous occasions voters have been asked to approve a three mill additional tax levy but each time it has been voted down. This three mill levy will again come up for a vote at the November election.

Last year West township pair tuition for 55 children who attended Minerva high school. Tuition was also paid for school children attending school at North Georgetown. This year the township will be unable to pay any, such tuition until November 16.

West township has a school enrollment of approximately 350 children. The present tax levy is approved, the school tax rate will still be lower than in most townships of the county.

Sandusky Named
Conservation Head

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—William H. Reinhardt, Sandusky, was appointed state conservation director today by State Director of Agriculture I. S. Guthrey. He succeeds J. W. Thompson of Lima who leaves the office Oct. 19.

Guthrey told Reinhardt to report here about Oct. 1, so that he will become wholly familiar with the duties of the office before he assumes charge. The position pays $5,000 per year.

In the notification letter the director of agriculture told Reinhardt he felt certain that the appointment would meet the approval of Governor White and the conservation council. He said he felt Reinhardt's long business experience had fitted him for the office and that he would "play the game square to the best interests of conservation."

Next Trial Flight
Of Akron on Sunday

AKRON, Sept. 25.—Third trial flight of the Zeppelin Akron has been tentatively set to begin during the sunset hour Sunday, Rear Admiral George C. Day, president of the navy board of inspection and survey, announced today. A further statement will be issued at noon Sunday, he said.

Although no statement on today's weather conditions and tomorrow's predictions was issued by the navy, government weather observers at the local airport reported strong winds which may have caused the decision not to schedule another flight before Sunday.

The Sunday flight will be devoted to turning, diving and climbing tests, according to the advance schedule of trials announced some time ago.

Find Tinker Guilty
In Homeworth Death

CANTON, Sept. 25.—Ernest Tinker, 36, Alliance Negro, was found guilty of first degree murder with a recommendation for mercy by a jury of 11 men and one woman in Common Pleas Judge E. W. Diehl's court late Thursday.

The jury deliberated one hour.

Conviction carries a penalty of life imprisonment in the penitentiary without hope of pardon or parole.

Tinker was found guilty of fatally shooting George McPeck, Homeworth farmer, slain in a gun battle with a trio of Negro chicken thieves at the George Wallace home, six miles south of Alliance last July 9.

William Reese, supposed to have been one of Tinker's companions at the time of the shooting, will go on trial on a murder charge Monday.

George Wallace and his son, Olan, testifying as state's witnesses, identified the defendant as the man responsible for the death of McPeck.

Guns confiscated after the shooting were offered in evidence during the testimony of Police Chief Harry Stark of Alliance.

A NEW FACTOR

The successful maiden flight of the U. S. S. Akron Wednesday afternoon makes the ship an object of international attention. Pressuming that the remainder of the test flights will be successful the Akron now is an important factor in this nation's armaments.Great Britain, which built two huge zeppelins and lost one of them on its first important flight, drops behind the United States in lighter-than-air strength. The Akron is larger than the 4-100, the remaining British ship. This country also possesses the Los Angeles, constructed in Germany and delivered here under a reparations agreement.Germany, whose famous Graf zeppelin has circled the world and traveled tens of thousands of miles safely, shares American enthusiasm over lighter-than-air travel—in fact, is responsible for most of it. German-born and German-trained zeppelin experts helped design and construct the Akron. The zeppelin is a German idea. It is fitting that all aircraft of the type should be named in honor of their inventor, Count Von Zeppelin.France, which is experimenting with rigid airships of small size, and Italy, which will not be outdone by France in the development of defensive equipment, have no large ships. Neither does the remaining world power, Japan.They, more than England and Germany, will watch closely the flights of the Akron to determine its power as a factor in national armaments. It is well to remember that Germany already is constructing another zeppelin which will be larger than the Akron—
the "Flying Fortress" of the United States navy. Peace may be the mood, but the construction of armaments never hesitates.

WHY MEDDLE?

America moves for peace in Manchuria dispute.The response to that information is "why?" Why should this nation's state department trouble itself over what both Japan and China say is a "local" disturbance on the continent of Asia?The answer is necessarily vague.
The public never has been given any specific reasons. It recognizes a certain obligation placed on all signatories of the Paris peace pact to preserve a state of peace, and it remembers that the United States, fulfilling that obligation,
"moved for peace" in the dispute between China and Russia two years ago. Still, there exists a certain amount of doubt as to why this nation should be the spokesman for the 14 other nations who signed the Paris peace pact three years ago.This doubt is settled only in part by the realization that the United States has come to have great diplomatic influence by reason of recent economic and political adjustments in the inter-national structure. Possession of the influence implies the right to exercise it. Hence, a local quarrel in Manchuria, viewed in some quarters as unwarranted aggression by Japan, and in others as a dispute of far less international consequence, draws diplomatic fire from the United States state department.

What Others Say

THAT BEER MIRAGE

These continual reports from Washington, some vague, some stuffed with circumstantial myth, of Mr. Hoover's intention to recommend the legalization of beer reasonably alcoholic in content, merely illustrate a well-known tendency of the human mind. Long and strong desire begets hope, hope expectation, expectation belief. The Republicans have made their bed and must lie in it. It probably thegreater part of its convinced friends, prohibition was and is a mor issue. The restoration of beer is now presented as an economic issue, a giver of employment, a stimulus for certain agricultural products. Even in that respect it is but a minor factor. Deliberately and almost unanimously a great business and source of public revenue, federal, state and municipal, was thrown away. Talking plausible political economy to the drys, the wets are really trying to satisfy a forbidden thirst.Does it never occur to the makers, disseminators and swallowers of the beer myth that a majority of congress will be as inflexible as Mr.
Hoover is imagined to be ductile in this matter? He could only lose friends and make new enemies by following the course sketched for him by so many imaginative artists.
But it is a waste of words to contend against absurdity. Intolerable as prohibition is, more pressing questions have put it in the background. They are instant. Modification of the Volstead act may be long in coming about. And in the ocean of jabber by the seventy-second congress, it will be no main current.—New York Times.

NEW YORK Day by Day

by O.O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Thoughts while strolling: Chevalier's flop on the radio did not hurt his movie popularity. He packs them in. Tough going for light ladies these days. Madge Evans is my newest cinema love. They say Anna May Wong has been in every country since China.

Donald Brian, a St. John's, Newfoundland boy, who made good in the city. There's a soft job—clerk in a Lexington avenue yacht store. Rumor Babe Ruth has been at several Park avenue teas lately. Those back-toothed boys with conversation limited to "Rawtier" and "Quite."

The smoothness that "Band Wagon" appeals only, to the intelligentsia is a current pain in the neck. It's mostly burlesque. Nor can I run a temperature over the Astaires. I've seen cleverer teams at the Palace. Business at the Flea Circus holds up.

Every time I pass one of those Vanderbilt mansions, I think of the first Cornelius in patched breeches collecting two-bit fares on his New York to New Brunswick ferryboat. Wonder if they've started burning dry leaves in gutter bon fires out yonder? Jerry Dahl.

Boom days must be on the way. An avenue jeweler displays pencils with gold knobs for dial phoning and a vert pocket dice cup with silver dice. The only professional sportsman with a screen appeal to me is Bobby Jones. Earl Carroll's white haired theatrical angel—W. R. Edrington of Ft. Worth.

Whitewash always makes me think of the poorhouse back home. And daisies of an old abandoned railroad siding near the town depot. That's where I first watched them grow. Vernon Castle had the first police dog I ever saw. And Irene the first griffon.

A woman with a peg leg. Jack Howard looks like one of the dancing slate brothers. Funny how a person's happiness is frequently annoying to other people. Ever notice? Herb Roth's athletic shoulders. Almost cold enough for an open fire and an evening with Dickens!

When Irvin Cobb was in San Francisco 15 years ago a young writer now well known approached him about storming the metropolitan gates. "What," he inquired, "do you think the attitude of eastern magazine editors would be toward a western writer?" Cobb reflected a moment and finally drawled: "I cannot tell precisely but it's apt to be calm."

They were talking of the late Henry Miller's bitterness for several dramatic critics. One of his special animosities was toward the somewhat esthetic Acton Davies, critic of the Sun. In a certain speech one night Miller observed: "Among the flutery cackles you will read in the morning will be those of the hen-pheasant of the setting Sun."

And there's the comedian who speaks of "a great hue and cry" and amends it flatteringly with, "well, at any rate a hue. You can't expect everything with times as they are."

"Speaking" postcards R. J. H. "of boys who keep their promises, do you recall that in his 1929 campaign Jimmy Walker yodeled from the houseboats: 'I am the candidate of Tammany Hall and if elected I will be a Tammany Hall Mayor.'"

But my favorite quotation from Mayor Walker's high blown personations is his "New York is the cleanest and best conducted city in the world."

My spies in Paris report that Gabrielle Chanel sums up her experiences in Hollywood with one of those enigmatic Gallic shrugs. The couturier was brought to the coast with a wild beating of tom-toms. Just what she was supposed to do was to do with putting chic into the cinema. She was a favorite however, at many Hollywood parties where she expressed the hoydenish spirit that gave her the name of "Coco" in Paris.

From a Broadway column: "During the excitement O. O. McIntyre hopped into a taxi with his two dogs and vanished."

The old squire riding to hounds.

The Stars Say —

For Saturday, September 26

The planetary configurations for this day point to a rather crucial state of affairs, with employment in jeopardy, and progress and finances hazardous. However, the mind will be found shrewd, penetrating and the judgment sound, thus prudently bridging over difficult places and ultimately wresting success from ill-favored circumstances.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year taxing their resources and abilities to surmount obstacles. Employment is in jeopardy, the finances not promising and favor with authorities or superior critical. However, the mind will be found shrewd, dependable and the judgment sound, well able to meet matters prudently and sagaciously if allowed to rule. A child born on this day should have excellent mental qualities, sound, prudent and practical, thus surmountable much that may thwart and imperil its affairs.

DETROIT—The depression was expected to reduce the enrollment of Detroit night school classes for adults this year. Last fall 25,494 men and women enrolled. Classes are held in 24 schools. A small tuition fee is charged for certain classes, but elementary instruction is free.

Clue in "Pirate" Murder

District Attorney Alexander Blue (left), of Suffolk County, N. Y., and Fred Munder, an assistant, are shown examining the anchor of the yacht Penguin, from which Benjamin F. Collings allegedly was thrown to his death by two mysterious "pirates." The anchor is expected to prove an important clue in the solution of the strange case by District Attorney Blue, who is in charge of the investigation into the murder.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City

Keep Things Away From Baby

In your childhood, it is probable you swallowed some object which should never have entered your mouth. This may have been a penny or a pin. Whatever it was, I am quite sure incident aroused much excitement and alarm in your family. Such accidents are of daily occurrence. In most instances, fortunately, the accident is not as alarming as it seems to the layman. The child usually expels the swallowed object and suffers no ill effects from the experience.

However, in many cases it is a serious thing. It is really dangerous when the swallowed object lodges in the windpipe, instead of entering the stomach. Indeed, in some cases the object may reach the lung.

These accidents can and should be avoided. Many a mother in dressing her infant or older child places safety pins and other objects in her mouth.

Children who see their mothers do this, frequently get the absurd notion that that is where such things belong. On finding a pin or other small object it goes at once into the little mouth.

Mothers should refrain from using the mouth as a receptacle for such things. It is a practice that encourages bad habits. By good example and proper teaching, children will learn that nothing but food belongs in the mouth.

By the way, another careless habit of adults as well as children, is that of hasty eating and improper chewing of food. On Fridays, when fish is a popular dish, there is always a flow of patients to nearby clinics and emergency rooms. The doctors are busy removing fish bones from the throat.

Train the Children
This accident is a dangerous one and sometimes requires quite an extensive operation for the removal of the bone. It can be prevented by the training of children in the importance of slow eating and careful chewing of all foods. This deliberate chewing is particularly important in foods containing bones.

It is interesting to learn that bones and other objects removed from the throat occur, in almost 80 per cent of cases in women. Perhaps that is due to their better table manners, with the natural desire not to use their fingers in removing foreign substances from the mouth. But, really, it is better to fall a bit in etiquette than to go to the hospital for relief.

Canning Campaigns Aid Ohio Needy; Drive's Benefits Listed

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25.—Hailed as a godsend to the needy, organized "can-the-surplus" campaigns are in full swing throughout the length and breadth of Ohio urging housewives to can all of this year's extra supply of fruit and vegetable crops and give the surplus to charity.

Two beneficial results of these "good Samaritan movements" are apparent on the surface. A myriad of other reasons could be listed. First and foremost is the assistance to the poor whose winter food supply problem will be solved, at least partially, through the campaigns to preserve the bumper crop of fruits and vegetables and give away the surplus. Charity organizations make no attempt to hide their belief that these campaigns will lighten their anticipated heavy relief demands during the biting cold winter months.

Crops which otherwise would be left to rot on the trees or in the gardens because of rock-bottom prices—rather to take advantage of them as a means of increasing the net results of these campaigns. Several Ohio communities, notably Cleveland, have set up human machinery in the form of "can-the-surplus" committees to direct the work. In other cities the campaign is merely an appeal by the city government, charity organizations or the newspapers, made to the housewives in each instance through the medium of the press.

Led by Mrs. William G. Mather, one of Cleveland's leading society matrons and a noted philanthropist, Cleveland's committee has received a tumultuous response from housewives and donations have been flooding in from all sections of the city.

Another and more novel phase of the Cleveland's committee's work is that of having unemployed pick the fruits and gather the vegetables, bringing them to the charity organizations where miniature canning factories have been set up for temporary use during the season.

KEEPING LAW IS CITIZEN'S DUTY

Att'y H.W.Hammond Discusses Community Responsibilities

"We must realize that government costs money and if we are willing to accept the benefits of that government we must be willing to share in its expenses. It is just as honorable to evade payment of a grocery bill as to attempt the evasion of the payment of taxes. We must keep in mind the fact that we pay for what we receive. "The man who faithfully discharges these duties," the speaker concluded, "will be living for the country and thereby doing much more than the man who dies for it. It is different from going forward with flags flying, drums beating, bugles blowing on the field of battle. There are no such incentives to cause a man to live for his country. He goes on in the even tenor of his way, performing the duty that is before him to perform, ever keeping in mind that he is a part of the government of his country and that it is his duty to set an example to his fellowmen."

LEGION NAMES NEW CHIEFTAIN

Closes Colorful and Busy Four-Day Convention With Stormy Session On Dry Issue

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—The American Legion entered a new Legion year today with a new commander, Henry L. Stevens of Warsaw, N. C., and a revised program, which included advocacy of a nation-wide referendum on repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment.

The Legion closed a colorful and busy four-day convention yesterday with one of the most stormy sessions of its history as delegates wrangled over the prohibition resolution and a proposal that the organization ask immediate payment of the face value of bonus certificates.

The latter resolution was defeated as a majority of the delegates followed the advice of President Hoover, Director Hines of the Veterans bureau, and other officials who ask that consideration be given to the condition of the national treasury. A resolution calling on able-bodied veterans to refrain from imposing financial burdens on the government was adopted.

The prohibition discussion—the first ever to come before a Legion convention—centered about the propriety of the Legion declaring itself. Amid cheers and jeers and cries of "we want beer" the opponents declared prohibition was not within the provinces of the Legion, that nothing could be gained by the organization in asking the referendum.

Supporters took the position that conditions under prohibition are such as to justify the Legion's seeking a remedy. They attributed what they termed "gang rule" in some section to the 18th amendment and maintained that the Legion should take the lead in a campaign for a popular vote.

Aimee's Gorgeous "Pharaoh"

Handing all of you plebeians out in front a frigid stare, David L. Hutton, Aimee Semple McPherson's new and third husband, is shown in gorgeous array, waited on hand and foot, in his role as Pharaoh in a sacred opera presented by the Los Angeles evangelist to her followers of Angelus Temple. Aimee's "Iron Man" looks ferocious enough here to carry out his threat of "sacking" anyone who criticizes the evangelist.

ERSKINE WINS IN BALLOT ROW

His Faction Is Recognized By Edward Schorr in Jefferson County Dispute

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—The Republican factional dispute in Jefferson county is settled so far as Edward D. Schorr, chairman of the party's state central committee, is concerned.

After conferring by telephone with other committee members, Schorr announced last night he would call no meeting to adjudicate the Jefferson county election board contest and that the state body would recognize the faction headed by DeWitt Erskine of Steubenville as the bona fide county executive committee in the matter of endorsements.

The dispute was submitted to the state committee by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, who had been advised that two party groups had recommended candidates to fill vacancies, resulting from the resignation of the election board which had been accused of erratic handling of registration cards in last year's primary election.

"We have decided," Schorr said in a letter to Brown, "to stand by our action of a year ago in recognizing the Erskine committee as the rightful group." This recognition was accorded on September 11, 1930, when the state committee approved the claim of Erskine delegates to seats in the state convention over the protest of the Wickcrsham faction.

BOWELS need watching

Let Dr. Caldwell help whenever your child is feverish or upset; or has caught cold.

His simple prescription will make that bilious, headachy, cross boy or girl comfortable, happy, well in just a few hours. It soon restores the bowels to healthy regularity. It helps "break-up" a cold by keeping the bowels free from all that sickening mucus waste.

You have a famous doctor's word for this laxative. Dr. Caldwell's record of having attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby is believed unique in American medical history.

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist and have it ready. Then you won't have to worry when any member of your family is headachy, bilious, gassy or constipated. Syrup Pepsin is good for all ages. It sweetens the bowels; increases appetite—makes digestion more complete.

STOCK MARKET TREND ERRATIC

Pushes Up Vigorously, Then Falls Off By Midday

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 — The stock market fluctuated erratically today pushing up vigorously in the first hour, then falling back about as fast as it went up, losing much of its advance by midday.

Achison railroad shot up nearly 8, then reacted about 4. Gains of 2 to 3 points in New York Central, American Telephone, Union Pacific and Dupont were about cancelled. Eastman showed a loss of 2 points. Several other gains of 1 to 2 points, however, were maintained, but the tendency was downward. Unsettledness in the Paris bourse was presumably a factor.

Call money renewed at 1 1-2 per cent.

Coalton Refuses To Pay Gas Bills

COALTON, O., Sept. 25.—For the second time in as many months, the gas consumers at Coalton have refused to pay their bills to the Ohio Fuel Gas company on the basis of higher rates placed in effect two months ago.

The consumers last month offered to pay the old rates, but the company refused to accept the payment and later suggested payment of the new rates, the advance to be imposed pending final determination of the controversy. The citizens rejected the proposal.

It all resulted from the city council authorizing higher rates and then when the consumers raised objections repealing the ordinance and putting the old rates back in force. The company claims it should receive the higher rates.

Mrs. Collings Reveals She Deliberately Permitted Abduction and put him on a bed. Suddenly the door opened and I heard them say, 'we're sorry to have to do this but we don't want any commotion.'

"Then I saw them tie my husband's hands. My husband protested he didn't want to be tied but then I saw him put his hands behind his back.

"I heard my husband say 'take the boat and leave us alone.' I went out. The older man ordered me back down into the cabin. Barbara was crying, 'leave my papa alone.'

"The next thing I heard was a crash of glass. And then I heard my husband say in an ordinary tone of voice, 'they're throwing me overboard.'

Mrs. Collings said she threw a mattress and the anchor rope to where she thought he was and shouted to him but got no answer. "The older man then came up and grabbed hold of me and held me tight," she said.

"I saw a rowboat going toward the mattress. Then the older man asked me if there was any money on the boat. I said $20, but he dropped the conversation and said nothing more about it."

Placed in Canoe

"Then it was, Mrs. Collings testified that the man put her into a canoe.

Both men paddled the boat over the waters of Long Island sound leaving her little daughter alone on the drifting cruiser. As they left, she said, she noticed another boat coming toward their boat and thought they would save her husband before he drowned and take her daughter off the drifting boat.

"We paddled it seemed for hours," she said.

"As we approached land, the older man told the younger one to leave the canoe. The younger one asked where to meet him. The older man said 'you know'."

"Then the older man paddled over to the yacht Bo Peep anchored near there. He changed some of his clothes. Opened a duffle bag and threw something that looked like note books and clothes overboard."

Then the man put her on the Bo Peep and paddled away toward Oyster Bay, Mrs. Collings testified. She made no mention of an attack on her by the older man and it appeared the officials had agreed not to question her on that part of the story.

She related the oft-repeated account of how she was saved from the Bo Peep by two men on an adjoining estate attracted by her cries.

on the back of an elephant, in its golden crown.

Some Americans, gone, but still here, interest you, as you pass their portraits within the White House, that was once their house. Woodrow Wilson, looking very young, handsome, hangs in a golden frame in the main hall. When you have known him at work, dictating to the world, financing half of it with American money, ordering obedient millions of men and billions of dollars, it seems strange to see him there, hung up, forever, on the right of the door not to move, unless another president shall order it, the quiet Negro servants, that once jumped and shivered at his approach, passing him, without a look. We are such stuff as dreams are made of, indeed, and when our little life is rounded with a gilt frame, to which no one pays attention, it is pitiful.

Gen. Grant, framed inside of Woodrow Wilson's door, has withstood time better, and he is inside the room, not out in the hall. He is a rugged person, with his big shirt front, old chain, stubby beard, who drank hard when he had no important job and fought hard, when there was fighting. He looks over to the left at Jefferson, with hair almost white. Their companions in the room are James Madison, and John Adams, the latter looking like Mr. Pickwick with fluffy hair standing out on either side of his surprised eyes.

Do they come back at midnight, and talk it over, and perhaps let Woodrow Wilson come through the door, and tell what he did, to make the world safe?

the plain statement, "the immediate causes for this cut in wages is the difficulty that corporations have in paying dividends on their stock, but the actual and elemental cause is the issuance, by these corporations of more stock than they are capable of paying dividends on."

"If corporations issue stock to the limit of their capacity to pay dividends in good times, they will not be able to pay dividends upon it, in bad times." There is the truth in two paragraphs—stock inflation in boom, wage cutting in depression.

It has been the custom, usually, in hard times, to begin with wage cuts, and discharging, immediately, without loss of time. President Hoover deserves credit for using his influence and authority to postpone the wholesale wage cuts, this time, by two years.

Immediately following the slump, he summoned the great industrialists and pledged them against wage cutting, and wholesale discharge of men. Thousands of workers owe to that effort the fact that 1929 wages have been continued until now.

Gen. Grant, framed inside of Woodrow Wilson's door, has withstood time better, and he is inside the room, not out in the hall. Girl Pays Way Through Ohio State by Reuniting Friends

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25.—A lonely girl sent a letter to a conductress of a newspaper asking aid in finding a friend and signed it "Wishing." The paragraph following the plaintive plea explained that it was not the policy of the newspaper to enter into the business of bringing lonely people together, but that possibly some of the readers might help.

Miss Mildred Barr, 23, of Columbus, read the letter. She felt a deep sympathy for the lonely girl. She had friends of her own, but she could appreciate how the girl must feel. So she wrote to the conductress of the column asking the girl's address, but requested that her own name and address be omitted from her letter.

"Friends' Club" Starts

But Miss Barr's letter got in the paper the next day by mistake, and she received 175 letters from lonely ones seeking her aid in finding friends. Thus the "Friends Club" came into existence.

Miss Barr left the city this summer to travel while on her vacation and the Friends Club passed out of existence.

She returned last week and registered at the Ohio State university as a special student in sociology. But there were books to buy and tuition to pay.

When some of the old members of the Friends Club learned that Miss Barr was back in town, they wrote or called her, and gave her an idea. She had formally charged a small fee for introducing people and now she would go into the business in earnest and thereby pay her way through school.

Young and Old Her Clients
Miss Barr uses the mail and phone exclusively in bringing lonely people together. Middle-aged people, elderly women who want to meet other elderly people, and boys and girls who want to meet friends of the opposite sex, are her clients.

"I have people who wish friends write to me enclosing their description," Miss Barr says. "I file the description and wait till I find another that catches it. If it is a case of a boy and a girl, I send the girl's description to the boy first. If he is satisfied, I send his to the girl. When both are willing to meet the other I notify the girl that the boy will call."

WYMORE, Neb.—Bill Chaffin's young bulldog has a sore face today. He attacked a porcupine and more than 300 quills were thrown into the dog. The dog finally killed the "porcupine," however. It weighed 20 pounds.

Indian Apostle With English Peers

ALBANY, Ore. — Mrs. Clare S.
Vernon is going back to wearing short skirts despite the stylists' ul-tiumatum. When Mrs. Vernon attempted to arrange her dress after a breeze had blown the end of the garment, she neglected to look where she was driving. The car went into a ditch, overturned three times, but Mrs. Vernon escaped uninjured.

George Rainey Was 'Working' Too Hard; Police Order Rest

LAFAYETTE, IND., Sept. 25.—In these days of unemployment it is interesting to note that authorities say that George Rainey has been doing too much work.

He worked eight hours each night as a telegraph operator for a railroad, practiced law by day, and in addition found time, investigators say, to do a little experimenting with $5 bills. They accuse him of splitting the bills apart and making two out of one by pasting on a bogus reverse side.

He was arrested yesterday and released on bond.

Would Shift Blame For Wife's Murder

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 25.—Elmer L. Jump, 36, meek mannered former elevator starter, fought today to shift to his 18-year-old nephew full blame for the slaying of his 29-year-old wife.

Jump and his nephew, Donald McDonald, were held in Lake county jail at Painesville charged with plotting to murder Mrs. Jump for $2,400 insurance on her life.

Young McDonald, detectives said, confessed he stabbed his aunt to death in Willkwick, last Feb. 5, for which he received $175 from his uncle out of the insurance money.

The eight months old murder mystery reached solution yesterday when police announced the pair had confessed after being confronted with evidence first uncovered through a bit of chance gossip overheard among prisoners in the Mansfield reformatory.

"Don proposed killing Nell and I protested against his doing it," he told police. His first confession, police said, freely admitted conspiring with his nephew for his wife's death.

Roller Plant Awaits Rush; Farmers Also Will Contribute Apples, Free, for Apple Butter to Be Given To County Welfare Agencies

LISBON, Sept. 25.—The making of cider and apple butter will begin the first week in October, when thousands of bushels of apples will be hauled to the C. E. Roller cider and apple butter plant here, the plant being the only one of its kind in this part of the state.

Apple Butter For Needy
One day during the season will be given over entirely to the making of apple butter free. This stock will be given to welfare agencies throughout the country for local distribution during the winter.

Farmers have informed County Agent Floyd Lower of their willingness to contribute from 100 to 500 bushels of apples each for this purpose.

More than 100,000 gallons of cider will be made at the Roller press this season, which has a capacity of 3,000 gallons daily. Between 150 and 200 gallons of apple butter will be made daily throughout the season.

Sorghum Is Produced
Apple growers who bring their apples to the mill to have them made into cider load barrels on their trucks and wagons and then return home with the stock. Farmers also bring their containers for apple butter with them.

Sorghum is now being grown in this county on a commercial scale and the first of the new crop of sorghum molasses is being produced. One tract of 10 acres of sorghum near here is now being harvested and the stock being trucked to the presses.

BIG TEN GRID DOPE
OHIO STATE "DARK HORSE"

Illinois	1	3	0	.250
Minnesota	1	3	0	.250
Iowa	1	4	0	.200
Nebraska	0	4	0	.000

NORTHWESTERN, Michigan and Purdue, the three leading teams in the Big Ten last year, are again favorites in the 1931 campaign.

It is possible for all three to finish the season with perfect records and in a tie for the title as they do not play each other.

Wisconsin and Ohio State promise to be the "dark horse" this season and either might crowd its way up among the three favorites.

Of the five second division teams Illinois and Minnesota promise to be better teams than in 1930. Illinois, with its young sophomore material is slated for a strong comeback after winning only one game last year.

Iowa and Chicago probably will have stronger teams than last year, but neither is apt to prove dangerous. It will take Iowa a couple of more years to recover from the big blow it received when most of its outstanding players were ruled ineligible in 1929.

A survey of the Big Ten football records from 1895 through 1930 reveals that Michigan has won a higher percentage of games against conference opponents than any other team. Michigan was a charter member of the conference but withdrew in 1908 and did not come back until 1917. The Wolverines have won 76-36 per cent of their games against Big Ten foes.

Chicago is next with a 62.90 percentage.

The all-time standing follows:

Michigan	76.36
Chicago	62.90
Illinois	57.96
Minnesota	57.03
Wisconsin	54.96
Ohio State	45.05
Iowa	43.51
Northwestern	36.11
Purdue	30.46
Indiana	27.19

Leaving the roar of the crowd for the hum and clickety-click of telegraph printers, Wesley Fesler, All-American football star at Ohio State university in 1928 and 1930, has joined International News Service as a special writer.

Now an assistant coach at Ohio State, Fesler is at work on his first assignment after signing a contract with Burl A. Ely, Ohio State manager of International News Service, to "cover" the football race between 30 Ohio colleges.

Fesler will prepare his copy in the office of the Columbus bureau after football games and football practices. His articles will appear in the sport page of The News.

QUAKERS SEEK FIRST VICTORY OF '31 SEASON

Invaders Bring Veteran Aggregation Here For Big Ten Inaugural

ED BECK EXPECTED TO PLAY HALFBACK

Stone to Start Strongest Lineup; Large Crowd to Witness Contest

Undaunted by their inauspicious inauguration of the 1931 football season last Saturday, when they lost a 12-0 verdict to Canton McKinley High, gridiron warriors of Salem High school will be seeking their first victory of the year tonight when they battle the veteran Niles eleven under the Reilly athletic stadium floodlight system.

First Night Game

It will be the first in a series of six night games for the Red and Black and will mark the official opening of the 1931 Northeastern Ohio Big Ten Interscholastic league season. The game is booked to get under way at 8 with Peter Pund, former all-American center at Georgia Tech, of Akron, Gross of New Philadelphia and O. S. Ellis of Youngstown as officials.

With Ed Beck expected to return to the lineup in role of halfback, hopes of a victory for the Red and Black were boosted sky-high today but a close battle is anticipated with the veteran invaders. Coach Floyd Stone expects to throw his strongest array of talent into the fray against the Niles machine and one of the leading contests of the year is anticipated.

Youngsters Show Promise

Showing of several youngsters in practice workouts during the past three days has produced developments that may force new faces into Stone's starting lineup but the personnel of the starting crew is, as always, where Stone is concerned.

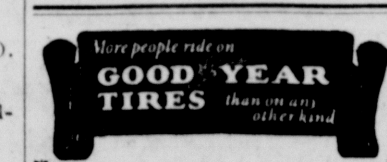

Showing the most fight, combined with ability, will be given the edge in selection of a varsity combine. Purn Siding, who played great ball against McKinley, and Gordon Keyes are rated first choices as ends while Billie Corso is almost certain to get the nod for certain. Corso was one of few Salem linemen to outplay his Niles teammates in the Canton game. Norm Early is favored for a tackle while Loren Battin and Whitcomb will probably start at guards.

Ed Beck to Play

It was uncertain at Thursday practices whether Beck would start the game but it is more than likely, in face of the strength of the Niles team, that he will be called into action early in the contest. Jack Carpenter and John French will be placed at two other backfield posts with choice of a fourth ball-carrier lying between several youngsters. Papish and Konert are leaders in the fight for the position.

Niles will come here with what its fans claim as the best team produced by the school in a decade. It will have two great advantages over the Quakers, one the all-veteran team, and the other in weight. To overcome these handicaps Salem must play a type of football far superior to that displayed against Canton.

PORTLAND, Ore. — Iowa's tall corn has nothing on Oregon's sunflowers. A bloom in Mrs. W. H. Morris' flower garden grew to a height of 14 feet. It measured 15 inches in width.

Mullins Loses Final in Milk Fund Series to All-Stars, 3-2

The curtain was drawn on the most successful softball season in Salem's history Thursday night as a team of all-star mushball talent won the third and deciding game of the milk fund benefit series from the championship Mullins foremen's club, 6-3.

Early Allows Four Hits

Played under the floodlights of Reilly athletic stadium, the game was easily the best of the series with George Early's pitching as the leading feature of the fray. Early granted great support by the all-star infield, allowed only four hits. Jimmie Fitzpatrick took the mound for the Foremen's club and was touched for ten safeties which were bunched in two innings for all the victors' runs. The game was well played throughout.

Rafferty Stars

Fielding of Frank Scullion, Kelley and Scott were fine points in the all-star combination's performance while a rapid-fire double killing, started by Joe Dorcheck, to Caldwell to Rafferty, knocked off two runs and was the leading fielding sensation of the battle. Rafferty played two runs and was the leading fielding sensation of the battle. Rafferty played great ball behind the bat for the losers.

The game was played for the benefit of the Salem public school milk fund. A large crowd braved near freezing weather for the affair.

MAIDSTONE, Kent, Eng.—Officials of the Southern Counties Women's Amateur Athletic association have decided not to allow girls under 18 to compete in cross country races.

The action of the association followed an amendment which lowered the age from 18 to 16. Certain members of the Women's A. A. A. who proposed the successful motion stated it was a case of prevention being better than cure.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25.—Plans for the district and state high school country races, have been announced by the Ohio High School Athletic association.

State Meet Scheduled
The state meet will be held at Ohio State university here, Nov. 7. Only boys who qualify in district meets will be eligible for the state meet. In district meets each school may enter 10 men, but only seven will compete. A school with less than 10 entries may enter boys for individual awards.

The length of the course in both district and state meets will be two miles. A boy to be eligible, must be at least 16 years of age on or before Dec. 1, 1931, and have engaged in training for a month prior to the meet. Entries for district meets will close Oct. 28.

Award Trophies
The state meets are for boys who qualify in the district meets. The event will start at 10 a. m., Nov. 7. Eligibility rules will be the same as for district meets. Schools will not be classed "A" and "B". Any boy who finishes among the first ten in district meets is automatically entered. There will be no entry fee. The meet will be under N. C. A. A. rules.

Awards in the state meet include a trophy emblematic of the state team championship; a trophy for the runner-up team; and individual awards for the first 12 runners to finish.

Members of the cross country teams, their coaches and managers will be the guests of the university at luncheon Nov. 7, and later will attend the Ohio State-Navy football game.

Ten Ohio Colleges Prepare for Opening of Grid Season

(By Associated Press)

The football steps sounded today to the war cry of the mule-shinners as ten Ohio college teams prepared for war. Seven battles were to be fought, four of them inter-state affairs.

Night Game Booked
John Carroll university and Adrian college of Michigan were to stage their season opener in all the magnificence of Cleveland's new municipal stadium tonight.

Other out-of-state teams prying off the Buckeye gridiron lid are Georgetown at Wittenberg, Transylvania at Xavier and Hanover at the University of Dayton.

Dayton will send ten veterans into the lineup against the Indiana eleven.

Xavier likewise will have ten veterans on the line for Transylvania of Kentucky. The only position yet unfilled is right end, and Coach Meyer expects to wait until game time before deciding.

Ohio Teams Clash
At Springfield, Wittenberg topped off its practice by a fast workout under the lights.

Strictly Ohio battles will see Wilmington in action at Muskingum, Marietta at Ashland and Cedarville at Mt. Union in a night contest.

Mt. Union polished up its forward pass attack as its best weapon against Cedarville. Marietta will be without the services.

Meanwhile, the training grind went forward in other camps in preparation for Saturday's games.

NORTHWEST OHIO CONFERENCE TO OPEN SCHEDULE

(By Associated Press)

BOWLING GREEN, Sept. 25 — The colleges of the Northwest Ohio Conference will get under way this week, minus one of their members, Toledo university, which school was forced to cancel its grid schedule due to finances.

Not a single one of the Northwest teams is favored to win this week. Findlay will go to Case and Bowling Green will battle nearby at Baldwin-Wallace. Defiance will be at Hiram and Bluffton will play Wooster.

The Bee Gees defeated Baldwin-Wallace last year, 7-6 and Defiance beat Hiram, 6-0, while Case took Findlay, 19 to 12. Bluffton and Wooster did not meet.

Strength of the teams in the conferences is not expected to be quite up to last year. The dope bucket doesn't seem to contain any more for one team than for another.

Veterans To Oppose Mount Union Eleven

CEDARVILLE, Sept. 25 — After a week of intense practice, Coach Marvin Bost announced his team was in first class condition for its opening game tonight, with Mount Union college.

Cedarville's prospects for a winning team are fair. The backfield is fast and experienced, but the line is composed mostly of recruits. The backfield has several of last year's regulars, including Capt. Irons, Rutan, Taylor, White and Carlucci. Cedarville will play home and home games with Rio Grande and Urbana and single contests with Wilmington and Morris Harvey.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

BY WILLIAM McLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS

Lee Reynolds is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined and starved the cattle. School friends from the east come as paying guests. Lee quarrels with her ranch foreman, Ramse Brennan, partly on account of a hand named Smith she hired without his permission and partly because she rejects his love suit. Brennan is discharged and swears revenge. Dune Daggett, an old ranch helper, recognizes Smith as Jack Hadley, whose father owned a nearby mine and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley tells Daggett that he is searching for the murderer of his father. Lee leaves a Mexican ranch and starts moving the herd southward. Mrs. Doris Silver, a flirtatious friend of Lee's, goes ahead to the Mexican ranch. Brennan drops in on her just before Jack Hadley, who has been sent on by Lee Arrives.

The odds were too great.

moved across the floor to meet her so lightly and so confidently was in sport shoes, belted cricket flannels, white shirt, colorful tie, and soft brown coat. He might have been at a hotel in a summer resort.

They made a jolly evening of it, the more so because Doris had been deprived of the attentions of an attractive man for so long.

Since Doris was a late riser, it was well on toward noon before they started in the car for town. The road was rough and often narrow. It wound up into the mountains and along ledges. Hadley drove with the skill and assurance of one used to cars of many makes.

They had brought a picnic lunch with them. They ate it far up in the hills among the pines and afterward smoked companionable cigarettes before they renewed the journey.

Palo Duro they reached in the middle of the afternoon.

Before he had been in the little city half an hour Jack Hadley knew there was something unusual in the air. He became uneasy. He wished he had not brought Doris Silver with him. Mexico in revolt was altogether too volatile for an American woman, especially an attractive one like Doris who insisted on making audible comment upon what she saw.

He warned her against this. "You are not at home. Mexicans are suspicious and easily offended. When you look at one and laugh she thinks you are making fun of her. Please be more careful. We don't want to draw any more attention to ourselves than necessary."

"You're as bad as Mr. Brennan," she pouted. "He told me to stay at home and not leave the ranch."

"Did he. Why didn't you tell me that? He knows what he is talking about. I can't get out of Palo Duro too quick to suit me. In a few minutes now I'll be through. Don't leave the store."

It was a command and she chose not to like the tone of it. When Jack looked around a few minutes later from adding up the cost price of the supplies he was purchasing Doris was not in sight. He walked down the street and stopped to make inquiries of the men who were taking the sun. One of them, he thought, was a villainous looking specimen.

Had they seen an American lady on the street within the last few minutes? He asked in Spanish. They had not. They had, in fact, just come out of the house. Hadley hesitated, not satisfied.

He made as though to move on, then looked back quickly. The man who had answered him was grinning. That grin was altogether too knowing and on a face altogether too sinister. And it was no certainty of innocence that when caught the grin went out like the light from a blown candle. Corroborative evidence stared up at the young man from the dusty street, in the form of a dainty footprint with the toe pointed toward the house.

Doris was inside the house. She had entered it of her own volition or by force.

The door opened to his pressure. He walked into an empty room. Beyond this was the patio, surrounded by a two-story building, a gallery running around the upper story. To this a flight of stairs ran from the court.

Jack stepped into the patio. There were doors, four of them, on the ground floor. He opened one and then another. Nobody at home.

Swiftly Jack took the stairs, three at a time. When he reached the top men were pouring out of a room like seeds pressed from a squeezed lemon. At sight of him one gave a shout, to let the others know.

In his college days a prize fighter had once given Jack the most important rule for a melle. It was to hit the other fellow first, unexpectedly, and hard. As the natives waited, uncertain what to do, young Hadley charged. In his plunge he caught up a chair and flung it at the huddle. The impact of it hurled the nearest man against the others. They gave ground and before they had recovered a hundred and sixty pounds of fighting energy was upon them.

Hadley was the active center of a compact group of struggling men, each unit of which was trying to strike or drag him down. They tore the shirt from his back. They scratched and hammered his face and body. Their arms went like flails as they beat upon his flesh. The deep panting of their lungs and the shuffling of moving feet accompanied the cries they uttered. But as they clawed at him as the mass swayed to and fro, he struck and struck again.

Hadley realized there could be but one ending to this. His attack had failed. He was growing weaker. Presently he would sink down and the life would be pounded out of him by the wolf pack. The odds were too great.

Yet the fact of the great odds saved him. His enemies had no singleness of mind except the desire to tear him to pieces. They hauled this way and that, one neutralizing the force of another. The weight of the scrimmage crashed against the rail. It gave as though made of paper. Those nearest could find no footing. They clutched at others. Two of them went plunging down into the centurypant below.

The American found himself free for the moment. He hurled his weight against the nearest man, who in turn was flung against the next, already tottering on the edge. Both of them lost balance and went over.

Jack turned snarling on another. The fellow wanted no more. He stumbled back, turned, and ran. His friends followed. Panic is contagious. Except for one swarthy little chap lying on the floor Hadley was alone.

He had been aware of cries from the room out of which the men had come before the battle. Now he staggered through the doorway and looked around. Doris, face colorless to the lips, eyes dilating with horror, was shuddering in a corner of the room back of a bed.

She stared at him, a picture of disheveled and bruised victory. His shoulders and torso were bare and bleeding. A knife wound disfigured one shoulder. Head and face were battered and discolored.

His mouth shaped to a distorted but indimtable grin. Then, with an amazed glad cry she recognized him.

"You!" "Still dragon slaying," he told her with sardonic irony. (Copyright, 1931: By William MacLeod Raine.) (To Be Continued.)

Fairfield Board Asks More Room for High School Work

May Have to Send Senior Students Elsewhere Unless Equipment Is Provided; Architect Meets With Parent-Teacher Unit

FAIRFIELD, Sept. 25.—At the P. T. A. meeting, Clarence Kissinger, architect, of Youngstown, showed outlines of the proposed addition to the school house, fully explaining them and drawing diagrams of each floor giving the reasons for placing class rooms, etc. in their particular positions. He also explained the present debt and how many mills it will cost each year for the next ten years if the proposed plans are carried out. It is believed that at no time will the tax assessment be raised more than one half mill.

The school board explained that unless it has the new equipment, it can only have three years of high school. The fourth year students would have to be sent to another school and the township would have to pay the tuition which would cost more than to graduate them in the Fairfield school.

The subject will be brought up for vote at the November election. There will be two more P. T. A. meetings before election, the first one on Oct. 13, thirteenth, when Mr. Kissinger will again be the speaker.

A membership committee was appointed as follows: Paul Cope

Mrs. Clyde Yarian and Mrs. Arthur Wisler. Members are to respond by grades each room receiving a star for each new member secured.

The publicity committee is Mrs. Godfrey Schwab and Miss Inetta Blackburn.

GALVESTON, Tex.—Regard of cost and possible financial citizens are determined to make the International Beauty Pageant a permanent event. The 13th annual pageant, in June, cost $20,000 but arrangements have already been made for representatives of 16 foreign countries next year.

Cherish the Clam Flavor

"Some day I'm going to start a movement to abolish the restaurant habit of corrupting clam chowder," belligerently announced the Man Who Makes a Hobby of Clam Chowder. He does it remarkably well, too, and once having sampled it, all other clam chowders seem flavorless. Being something of an expert after many years of devotion to his specialty, he declares that chowders are invariably ruined by overseasoning, and you don't taste clams?

Preserving natural flavor is one of the tests of really good cookery. Long, slow cooking, which is the way of developing flavor in meats, for example, is simple enough. All one has to do is to make sure of a low flame, and then forget about it for some hours.

Preserving Delicate Flavor

In preserving a slight flavor, however, there is another problem. Over-cooking destroys delicate aromas. To keep its natural flavor in a dish of clams, or other shellfish, certain kinds of brief cooking processes are necessary. Seasoning must be carefully chosen to provide background, not to conflict with or drown natural flavor. To overcook clams, therefore, is to spoil the dish as much as to overcook coffee (and what greater crime is there to an epicure?)

The best method of serving hot clams in their own flavor is either as steamed clams, or bisque, or a chowder blended with similar shellfish.

Clam bisque is usually made of the steamers. Place the fresh washed clams (and they must be washed in several waters to remove the maximum sand) in a large enough saucepan to permit the opening of the shells. Add only a little water—a cup or less—just enough to prevent scorching at the beginning. Cook rapidly for a few minutes, the time depending on the amount of clams being cooked. When all shells are open, remove the meat from the shells, carefully pouring the liquid through a fine strainer into another saucepan. It may be necessary to strain through several thicknesses of fine cheese-cloth to remove the sand. Or if there is time to let the liquid stand five or ten minutes before serving, all the sand will sink to the bottom and the liquid will clear.

A Clam Chowder

When ready for serving, heat the clam juice, remove from fire add the clams, and thicken with whipped cream, allowing 1 cup of stiffly whipped cream for each 4 cups of clam juice. Season with salt only if necessary—but the clam bisque will taste better without any additional flavor whatever.

For a clam chowder that tastes of the sea and not of seasoning, cook hard shell clams until open. Remove clams, carefully preserving all liquid and straining it. Chop clams fine and set aside. To one quart of boiling water add 1 pound of scallops and cook for 1 minute. Drain and cut up the scallops into small dice. Add the liquid from scallops to the clam juice when ready to serve, then add chopped scallops and clams, and thicken with whipped cream.

It happens that the scallop and clam juice blend very well, and a pound of scallops will flavor a quart of water adequately. Be sure not to cook the scallops more than a minute, for they harden very rapidly and then are absolutely inedible. Overcooked scallops can't be chopped or minced—they resist every attack!

This, of course, is not the orthodox chowder—neither the New York nor New England variety, both of which depend on vegetables and seasonings and have little of the fish flavor when finished compared to this pure shellfish chowder.

AS TAX FUNDS MAY TAKE DROP

Large Decrease Expected In Ohio Next Year, Officials Predict

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25 — Ohio's gasoline tax receipts probably will drop off from $259,000 to $400,000 next year, it is believed here.

An inspection of the records of the Auditor Joseph Tracy showed that gasoline tax collections from the first of this year until August aggregated $24,420,926.63, compared with $24,705,970.33 during the same period last year. These figures reveal a loss of $285,043.47 collection during the first eight months of this year.

This decline was attributed to industrial depression with its attendant falling-off in the miles registered this year by motorists in Ohio's highways and streets.

The total amount of gasoline tax distributed by the state, and this year to the state highway department and to the counties, cities, villages and townships fell $281,151.64 over the amount distributed during the first eight months last year. Up to Aug. 1, this year, Auditor Tracy distributed $23,174,232.14 as against $23,455,133 during the first eight months last year.

The discrepancy between the amount of taxes collected and the amount distributed is due to the fact that certain refunds were made of various corporations, firms and individuals after they paid tax. Up to Aug. 1, the refunds in year totaled $1,256,694.74, as against refunds aggregating $1,587,171 last year.

Distributions made this year are as follows: State highway department, $14,483,895.97 of which $9,692.84 went into the construction and reconstruction fund; $5,214,202.23 into the maintenance and repair fund; cities and villages, $4,065,490.58; counties, $476,134.83; townships, $1,158,156.

Britain's Gold Suspension May Revive Silver Standard

Advocates of White Metal in U. S. Senate to Renew Pleas to President Hoover for International Conference.

With the suspension of the gold standard by Britain the adequacy of such a standard as a medium for international trade is once more questioned. Senator William E. Borah, backed by Senators Smoot and Pittman, has urged President Hoover to convene an international silver conference with the object of putting before the nations the feasibility of reverting either to a metallic (gold and silver standard) or to a silver standard. They reason that as there is so little gold in the world it has no right to continue as the basis of international trade, more especially as America holds half of the world's supply. A return to the silver standard would enable nations that are now unable to do so, to do business with America. The diagram above shows how the entire amount of gold in the world is distributed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—To the layman whose knowledge of high finance extends no farther than the disposal of his weekly or monthly salary, the commotion that followed the news of the British Government's suspension of the gold standard is altogether incomprehensible. In fact, he doesn't know what it is all about. Put into simple untechnical language the situation is not so hard to understand. Britain's action means merely that she is no longer able to pay her debts in gold. It does not mean that she is, in any sense, "broke," but that she is in the same position as a man with a vault full of securities and large real estate holdings who suddenly finds himself short of cash.

Spring-Holzwarth Significant Among the New Styles is the TRICORNE HAT

$1.88

Tricornes are in! And the details and trimmings are so different that no two look alike!

Veil Trims—

This fact bears out the contention of many American statesmen who hold that the amount of gold in the world is not enough to warrant international business being confined to the gold standard.

Silver they point out, is plentiful, so plentiful that it is practically a drug upon the market. Why, then, they reason, is not international business run upon either a gold and silver standard or upon a silver standard alone?

Chief among the advocates of the silver standard are Senators Smoot, Borah, and Pittman, who urge the rehabilitation of silver, reasoning that as half the population of the earth regard silver as the standard of value they are unable to buy goods in America or any other gold standard country on an equitable basis.

It was only last February that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee passed a resolution asking President Hoover to call a silver conference of governments interested in the question of a silver standard. In June Mr. Hoover let it be known that "certain governments" did not look favorably upon the result aimed at by the conference and, as their participation was essential, the matter was dropped.

It is believed that Britain was one of the "certain governments" that frowned upon the suggested conference at that time, but the straits in which she now finds herself may cause her to think differently, so there is hope that the work of Senator Borah and his cohorts in the silver question, for an international conference will not, after all, be in vain.

International economists are loud in their condemnation of the gold standard as inadequate for international business. They insist that as long as gold continues the basis of trade and remains scarce commodity prices are likely to remain low. In the frantic grabbing for the limited supply of precious metal, it will obviously take a large amount of rubber, cotton or wheat to obtain a small amount of gold.
